Dear Direktor Byrne,

I have learned that you have sent hundreds of different emails around the world and are prejudiced against me. I would like to answer your accusations in detail. You did not tell me to whom and to whom you wrote against me. I would ask you once again to leave the correspondence to me and not to spread news behind my back that usually contains untrue facts. I urgently need the information about the people who addressed them behind my back, for example to give public answers. What is particularly bad is the fact that you have no idea about my work and radicalism and anti-Semitism research. When I want to publish in international journals, the question always arises whether I know that King's College and David Marks are making evil accusations against me and how I am answering them. I hear that you judge all of my work negatively and I suggest that you take it back from all published journals. I ask for the reason to be able to answer this. I am convinced that her statements are not scientific criticisms, but defamation and insults.

Best regards,

your Ronald Grossarth-Maticek
